

Welcome to the Cité!

Dijon's Cité Internationale Centre for Gastronomy and Wine shares and promotes the values of the 'Gastronomic meal of the French' and the 'Climats, terroirs of Burgundy', which enjoy UNESCO World Heritage status.

Inhabiting the site where the Hôpital Général once stood and just a stone's throw from Dijon's old town, the Cité is a striking new setting that celebrates modern architecture whilst safeguarding local heritage. Today, it resonates as a place that encourages people to engage around food, shining a light on local produce and fostering the transmission of skills and knowledge.

The Cité offers something for absolutely everyone, inviting visitors to broaden their knowledge by exploring the major exhibitions, take cookery and wine-tasting courses, attend masterclasses or conferences, enjoy shopping in specialised food and drink shops that place local produce centre stage, indulge their taste buds in the restaurants, or even watch a film at the cinema complex.

The pick-and-mix-style offering caters to visitors young and old, from curious sightseers to consummate connoisseurs, all keen to embrace a thoroughly unique sociable and festive experience.
